REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.
THE members of the REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE OF BACKS COUNTY are requested to assemble at the County House, Doylestown, on SATURDAY, AUGUST FIFTEENTH, 1881, at ten o'clock, a. m., for the transaction of important business. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

Governor Hoyt has approved the bill to prohibit the defacing of walls, fences and trees by painting, posting or otherwise.

The President yesterday passed the best day since he was wounded. There has been only a slight recurrence of the fever. His appetite has been good, and his food is assimilated well, but it has not been of a solid nature. He is looking forward now chiefly to the time when he can take the trip upon the Potomac and possibly a sea voyage, which has been promised him by the middle of August, if he continues to improve. Arrangements are being made for his trip to be as safe and comfortable as possible.

Mayor King of Philadelphia has issued an order to the police to use their best efforts to arrest and prosecute all those who shall carry any fire-arm, slung-shot or other deadly weapon concealed about his person, and apprehend all those they may have reason to believe are violating the law in this particular. Mayor King, commenting upon quarter sessions decisions that the acts of the city council are unconstitutional so far as they apply to the bearing of weapons for self-defense, asserted that this was good as far as it went, but he held that a man carrying a concealed deadly weapon in Philadelphia bore it for a purpose not self-defense. In the future would be something different from miniature arsenals.

The financial and business reports of the Postmaster General, strange and surprising as it sounds, encourage the expectation that he may succeed in making his department self-supporting. If this be accomplished Mr. James will rank with John Sherman, who is perhaps the most successful minister of finance, not only of this century and this country, but of all countries. Mr. James has stopped several leaks, and he inspires the entire service with the principles of correct business, great efficiency and rational economy. Mr. James was called into the Cabinet partly because of his well known abilities, partly and incidentally as a friend of Mr. Conkling. This latter point is not important but is not without a certain curious interest just now. He will be vast department self-supporting as well as more respectable.

A beginning has been made upon the town which Mr. George W. Childs of Philadelphia intends locating at Wayne station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad. A reservoir with a capacity of 250,000 gallons has been constructed, the water for which is drawn from a creek fed by springs. The reservoir is on the highest point in the tract of six hundred acres, and it is intended to so adorn the basin as to make it an attractive part of the landscape. A hotel has been built near the station, which contains, besides the usual large apartment, fifty chambers. The building of cottages has begun in earnest. It is designed to establish the town on sanitary principles. The underlying motive is to give people of modest means a chance to provide for themselves honest means not too far away from the city and yet far enough to be relieved of its annoyances and high rents. Any one wanting to take up a residence in the place will be sold a lot for a nominal sum and can have constructed a house, for which Mr. Childs will advance two-thirds of the cost on easy terms.

The game and fish laws were amended at the last session of the Legislature, as follows:—Pike and deer may be killed from October 1 to December 31. Bass, pike, pickerel and salmon shall not be caught or killed between January 1 and June 1, nor shall any of said fishes be caught or killed at any time during the year save only with rod, hook and line. Trout less than five inches in length shall not be caught, taken or killed, and it is not lawful to fish in any stream in the State for a period of three years in which brook trout have been planted by the fish commissioners. Shad shall not be caught in the Susquehanna and Juniata rivers from sunset on Saturday till sunrise on Monday, in any week during the run of said fish from March 15 to June 25, and the meshes of seines must not be less than 4 1/2 inches from knot to knot, diagonally. Rabbits shall not be killed between January 1 and November 1. Pigeons are protected while on their nesting grounds, and no fire-arms shall be discharged within one-fourth of a mile of such nesting place.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—During the week the usual salutation of friends on meeting has been, "Hot enough for him?" and I don't think any one has had the boldness to respond in the negative. But hot as it has been here, it does not seem to have been a side-show to the equatorial discomforts of other localities. The hot spell has been the means of depopulating our streets, and compelling a raid on Coney Island, Rockaway, Long Branch, and the thousand and one other delightful summer resorts in this vicinity, where glorious bathing, refreshing drinks, dreamy smokes and entrancing music can be enjoyed, while ever present cooling breezes from off "old ocean," add to the enjoyment of the seeker after rest and recreation. The landladies are happy. They rake in the shillings and beam hospitably upon their numerous guests. The owners of rival lines of excursion steamers are driving a brisk trade, offering all sorts of inducements to secure patronage and cutting rates with a recklessness that induces the belief that before the season closes, a free passage with a chromo thrown in, will be about the regular tariff. There is one serious drawback to this sort of thing. Steamboat owners are boasting of the speed of their craft, and reckless racing between competing steamers running to the same points, is of hourly occurrence, with an occasional collision to vary the monotony of the thing.

The cutting of passenger rates, over rival railroad lines is exciting deep interest among persons intending to travel West, and if the war continues and prices reach a much lower figure, hundreds of persons who usually take their vacation at this season will avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing something of the West, for about the same money they have paid for trips within a hundred miles of the city. Tickets for Chicago can be bought for $11 to-day, with the prospect of an early decline of fifty per cent. on that amount.

The $250,000 fund which Cyrus W. Field proposed to raise for Mrs. Garfield, is not, it is thought, so successful as his friends anticipated. Remittances do not come in rapidly, notwithstanding Mr. Field's urgent appeals to his affluent countrymen. When John W. Mackey, the Nevada Millionaire, arrived here the other day, Mr. Field importuned him by letter for a subscription, but the Bonanza King, feeling hurt because Mr. Field did not call, paid no attention to the request and sailed on the St. Laurent for France, where Mrs. Mackey, who in early days was satisfied with the elegant and cultured (?) society which her husband's fortune afforded, is now residing in regal style, and entertaining with a lavish magnificence, that has aroused the comment of the press and people of the European continent. If Mr. Field had paid his respects to Mrs. Mackey—as is his wont to do now—days, but as he was, he stood upon his dignity, as became (?) a man whose "better half" pays her "boss" cook $6,000 per annum.

We have an alleged notorious Italian bandit-brother, swarthy fellow, who has been brought from New Orleans, where he has been a vendor of fruit, on a requisition charging him with murder and robbery in Italy. He denies that he is the man wanted, and is trying hard with the aid of counsel to effect his release. Apppearances and the weight of evidence are against him, and he will probably be returned to his native land to convince his own government that he is "more sinned against than sinning." We have some local bandits that should be speedily run to earth. Only yesterday they committed another daring deed of outlawry on a public street. A clerk for Jacob Ruppert, the brewer, was driving from his office to the bank to deposit $9,000 in bills and $1,000 in silver. Suddenly a blood-like looking bay horse, drawing a common peddler's wagon, containing three men, was driven along side and so close as to force the brewer's horse over onto the curb and stop him. In an instant two men sprang into the buggy, one of whom held a pistol, with which he hit the clerk a stunning blow on the head, and seizing the bills which were in a square package on the seat, he jumped to the ground, while his companion, who had secured the silver which was in a bag and weighed sixty pounds, followed. The clerk proved too heavy to handle and rolled into the gutter, where it was abandoned by the robber, who, regaining their own wagon with the $9,000 in bills, drove rapidly down the avenue. The clerk having recovered from the blow, whipped up to follow the fleeing highwaymen, knowing that he could give them a lively race, but found that the reins had been cut by the third robber and rendered useless. Therefore pursuit was out of the question, and the three robbers escaped with their booty. This robbery, bold and startling as it was, is not without precedent. Three years ago, a clerk for the Planet Mills, in Brooklyn, was robbed in a similar manner, and more recently the collector of the Third Avenue Railroad was riding in a car, when thieves drove up in a wagon, stopped the car, beat the collector till he was insensible, robbed him and escaped. These lawless acts are not a flattering comment on the efficiency of the police.

As some one long ago remarked: "Marry in haste and repent at leisure." Walter Winton, whose father was President of a bank, did this in 1866, when he was 20 years old. His bride was a beautiful girl of 13. The couple lived happily for five years and then a cloud over-spread their domestic horizon. Three years of discord followed, and in 1874, as Mrs. Winton asserts, her husband deserted her and disappeared. She did not propose to be left all forlorn, and has been pursuing him ever since. She followed him to Detroit, but he escaped her. Two months later she heard he was in business in Ohio. She went there, but he had gone to Canada. She followed him from one Canadian town to another, but lost track of him in Toronto in 1878. Two weeks ago she found him in business in this city under an assumed name, and had him arrested for abandonment. Winton claims to have obtained a divorce from his wife in Wisconsin, in 1876. Mrs. Winton says she was never served with papers in any divorce proceedings. Complicated and unpleasant as the Winton troubles appear, they are not so sad as the differences of Mr. and Mrs. Kernan, who were married less than year ago, when he was of cheerful disposition, and she of many graces of mind and manner. They quarreled on their wedding day about some trivial thing, and have lived unhappily ever since. In April Mrs. Kernan tired of the contention left her to return home, but she was firm in her refusal to comply. He became a changed man, and on Wednesday took a dose of Paris Green to end his troubles.

CONFESSIO OF GUILTY.
United States District Attorney Corbhill has furnished the following statement for publication, in order to correct certain erroneous assertions which have been made in relation to Guitane, the would-be assassin of President Garfield: The interest felt by the public in the details of the assassination, and the many stories published, justify me in stating that the following is a correct and accurate statement concerning the points to which attention is made: The assassin, Charles Guitane, came to Washington city on Sunday evening, March 6, 1881, and stopped at the Ebbitt House, remaining only one day. He then secured a room in another part of the city, and has boarded and roomed at various places, the full details of which I have. On Wednesday, May 18, 1881, the assassin determined to murder the President. He had neither money nor pistol at the time. About the last of May he went into O'Meara's store, corner of Fifteenth and F streets, in this city, and examined some pistols, asking for the largest calibre. He was shown two similar in calibre and only different in the price. On Friday, May 20, 1881, he purchased a .38 calibre pistol which he used, for which he paid $10, he having in the meantime borrowed $15 of a gentleman in this city on the plea that he wanted to pay his board bill. On the same evening, about seven o'clock, he took the pistol and went to the foot of Seventeenth street and practised firing at a board, firing ten shots. He then returned to his boarding place and wiped the pistol dry and wrapped it in his coat and waited his opportunity. On Sunday morning, June 12, 1881, he was sitting in Lafayette park, and saw the President leave for the Christian church on Vermont avenue, and he at once returned to his room, obtained his pistol, put it in his pocket and followed the President to church; he entered the church, but found he could not get in, and he then went to the rear of the church, where he made an examination of the window, and found he could reach it without any trouble, and that from this point he could shoot the President through the head without killing anyone else. The following Wednesday he went to the church, examined the location and the window, and became satisfied that he could accomplish his purpose. He determined to make the attempt at the church the following Sunday. Learning from the papers that the President would leave the city on Saturday, the 18th of June, with Mrs. Garfield, for Long Branch, he therefore determined to meet him at the depot. He left his boarding place about five o'clock Saturday morning, June 18, and went down to the river at the foot of Seventeenth street and fired five shots to practise his aim and to certain his pistol was in good order. He then went to the depot, and was in the ladies' waiting-room of the depot with his pistol ready when the Presidential party entered. He says Mrs. Garfield looked so weak and frail that he had not the heart to shoot the President in her presence, and as he knew he would have another opportunity, he left the depot. He had previously engaged a carriage to take him to the jail. On Wednesday evening the President and his son, and I think United States Marshal Henry, went out for a ride. The assassin took his pistol and followed them, and watched them for some time in hopes the carriage would stop, but no opportunity was given. On Friday evening, July 1, he was sitting on the seat in the park opposite the White House when he saw the President come out alone. He followed him down the avenue to Fifteenth street, and then kept on the opposite side of the street upon Fifteenth until the President entered the residence of Secretary Blaine. He waited at the corner of Mr. Morton's late residence, corner of Fifteenth and H streets, for some time, and then, as he was afraid he would attract attention, he went into the alley in the rear of Mr. Morton's residence, examined his pistol and waited. The President and Secretary Blaine came out together, and he followed over to the gate of the White House, but could get no opportunity to use his weapon. On the morning of Saturday, July 2, he breakfasted at the Biggs House about 7 o'clock. He then walked up into the park and sat there for an hour. He then took a one-horse avenue car and rode to Sixth street; got out and went into the depot and loitered around there; had his shoes blacked; engaged a hack-man for $2 to take him to the jail; went into the water-closet and took his pistol out of his hip pocket and unwrapped the paper from around it, which he had put there for the purpose of preventing the perspiration from the body dampening the powder; examined his pistol; carefully tried the trigger and the returned and took a seat in the ladies' waiting-room, and as soon as the President entered advanced behind him, and fired two shots. These facts I think can be relied upon as accurate, and I give them to the public to contradict certain false rumors in connection with the most atrocious of atrocious crimes.

A carrier pigeon belonging to the "Homing Pigeon Society, of Trenton," was captured on the tow boat Thomas A. Scott, on Friday week. Judging from the jaded condition of the bird it had evidently been on a long jaunt.

The Philadelphia Ledger of December 29, 1880, mentions among many others, the case of Chief of Police of that city, Samuel H. He has also heard from many who have used it for rheumatism, that it alone of all remedies did them good.

Many thousands of people yearly are saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in the matter of properly cleansing the system in the spring season, from the accumulated impurities which, if left undisturbed, breed disease. As a purifier Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits.

A Difficult Problem solved.
Ambition, competition and over-exercution use up the vital powers of men and women, so that a desire for stimulants seems to be a natural human passion. The drunkenness prevails on account of this necessity for bodily and mental invigoration. Parker's Kidney and Bladder Pills solves this difficult problem, and has brought health and happiness into many desolate homes. It does not tear down an already debilitated system, but builds it up without intoxicating. —Enquirer.
